Innovative team and leadership development solutions.

COOKIN' FOR HUNGER

Get your team fired up with this interactive cookout that promotes team development while giving back to the community. The Kohler Experiential Learning Center and local nonprofit, NOURISH Farm-to-Family Philanthropy, have joined forces to create an experience to help your team and those in need.

How Does It Work?

In this team-led project management experience, teams start at a local farm where they learn about sustainable agriculture while harvesting vegetables for the evening's dinner. At the Kohler Experiential Learning Center, participants select their roles in creating a full meal using fresh, local ingredients to serve the team as well as 20+ meals for a local homeless shelter. Teams reap the benefits of successful project management and individual accountability, enjoying both camaraderie and a delicious meal cooked over an open fire. In order to translate the ideas and spirit of this event to lasting effects for your business, participants take time to discuss, share and draw insights from the event in a team-designed debriefing.

How Do Participants Benefit?

- Build team engagement
- Foster open communication
- Gain perspective on team dynamics
- Build team cohesiveness
- Learn about sustainable agriculture
- Give back to those in need

How Might Cookin' for Hunger Be Customized?
