

GPS ODYSSEY

Navigate your team to increased efficiency and success. Designed to provide teams with a challenging adventure while helping them develop decision-making and communication skills, GPS Odyssey is an unconventional approach to team and leadership development. An effective stand-alone event, GPS Odyssey also pairs well with several other Kohler Experiential Learning Center programs.

How Does It Work?

Teams are tasked with navigating an unfamiliar course that runs over trails and wooded terrain or through the Village of Kohler. Before setting off, teams receive instruction on using a handheld Global Positioning System (GPS) device to aid in mapping their route. To complete the course, teams must not only make use of technology, but they must rely on communication and decision-making skills as well. During the adventure, teams are also required to discuss and formulate answers to a series of customized questions tied to each group's objectives. GPS Odyssey may be designed as a competitive or collaborative event, depending on your organization's needs.

How Do Participants Benefit?

- Learn to collaborate effectively
- Gain insights into team and leadership dynamics
- Develop communication and decision-making skills
- Successfully navigate the orienteering course
- Become familiar with new technology
